COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

MULTI-MODAL

OT in the NT*, Dr. Ian Vaillancourt, Fridays – May 14 & June 11, 1:00pm – 8:00pm

This course investigates the claims of the NT authors as they were reflecting on the OT message. We will investigate their methods of interpreting the OT within the context of early Judaism, the various uses they made of the OT, and the effect of their interpretations. The continuity of Scripture, scholarly viewpoints on the relationship between the testaments, principles for interpreting the NT, and implications for nurturing our faith will be discussed.

BOT795-1 (Seminary)

Life & Thought of C.S. Lewis*, Dr. Steve West, Fridays – May 28 & June 25, 1:00pm – 8:00pm

C. S. Lewis has never been more frequently read or cited than he is today. He is widely recognized as one of the most influential Christian writers and thinkers of the last one hundred years. This course is designed to introduce students to Lewis's thinking and writing. Students will focus on reading and evaluating a selection of Lewis's most important works. Classes will be devoted to exploring and analyzing his thought, making it possible to appreciate more deeply all of his writings.

THS744-1 (Seminary); THE353-1 (College)

MODULE

Strategic Advance: Church Planting Theology & Praxis*, Mr. Tom Haines, May 3-7, 9:00am – 4:00pm

This course provides an introduction and systematic overview of the process of church planting for the strategic advancement of the church in culture. Included are biblical and theological rationales for church planting as a unique evangelistic and disciple-making strategy, a study of the intersection of missiology and ecclesiology, as well as an introduction to specific tools, methods, and resources needed for the effective planting of new churches.

PAS663-1 (Seminary); MIN401-1 (College)

Theological Foundations for Biblical Counselling*, Mr. Jason Kovacs, May 7-8 and June 18-19, Fridays 1:00pm - 8:00pm & Saturdays 9:00am – 4:00pm

This course will examine the foundations of Christ-centered, Biblically informed counselling. A theological framework for soul-care will be discussed, including key doctrines for formulating a Biblical understanding of sin, suffering, and change.

PCS513-1 (Seminary); Prerequisites (PCS512-1 and PCS514-1)

Revelation*, Mr. David Campbell, June 4-5 & 18-19, Fridays 1:00pm – 8:00pm & Saturdays 9:00am - 4:00pm

This course is a study of the final and somewhat unique book of the canon, Revelation. Emphasis is placed on the genre issue, different hermeneutical approaches to the book, the millennial question, the book's literary structure and artistry, and its high Christology.

BNT690-1 (Seminary)

WEEKLY

Life and Thought of Augustine*, Dr. Michael Haykin, Weekly Thursdays– Beginning May 6th, 6:30pm – 9:30pm

A detailed study of certain aspects of the theology of Augustine of Hippo (354–430), arguably the most influential theologian of the Ancient Church. The course explores his account of his personal pilgrimage (the Confessions), his Trinitarianism (On the Trinity), his theology of history (The City of God), and aspects of his teaching. Augustine's interaction with Scripture and his perspective on living coram Deo in each of these areas of thought is especially highlighted.
